

Chuck Wyborney graduated from high school in 1985 from Columbia High School in Hunters, WA. He earned his BA.E from Eastern Washington University and his MA.E from Heritage College, then earned his superintendent credentials through WSU. He started as a high school social studies teacher in Inchelium in 1990. He then returned to Columbia to teach history and math, then served as principal and superintendent. He is currently the superintendent at the White Pass School District in Randle, WA.

Chuck has been married to his wife Cindy for 24 years. They have three children who make them extremely proud. Dustin, 22, is graduating from Carroll College in Helena, MT this year. Megan, 20, is a sophomore at the College of the Atlantic in Bar Harbor, ME. Sophie is currently a fourth generation student at Columbia High School, finishing up her junior year. Cindy teaches high school English at Kettle Falls and works as an adjunct professor in EWU's College in the High School program.

Chuck is excited to return home to Eastern Washington and serve the Wilbur and Creston communities.
